Uncle Jeems Long, one of the best farmers in this section, has a bunch of exceptionally fine onions on display at this office, which again emphasizes the possibilities of Fulton county. No better country in the world for raising truck.

A. E. DeBow left Sunday for Louisville, where he will be in the employ of the Mengel Box Co. For several years he has looked after the company's books at their branch office here, and his many friends will be glad to learn that he has made himself necessary in the home office of this big concern. In other words the change means a step higher and a better salary. The position he held here was one of responsibility and he has made good, as is evidenced by the action taken on the part of the men "higher up." The great corporations today are looking for young men who have ability and staying qualities, and are not asking their price.

Mrs. Emma Stephens left Monday for Huntsville, Ala., to spend a month with her brother, H. E. Garth.

Miss Bonnie Carpenter will leave in a few days on an extended visit to friends in Atlanta, Ga., and other Southern points.

Bulte's Excellence is the name of our new, high grade flour, guaranteed to be the best in Hickman. Your money back if not satisfied.—Bettersworth & Prather.

A survey will be made in the lower bottom this week, along the west side of Owen Slough, for a new county road. The distance covered by the new road will be about seven miles, and its width will be 40 feet. This does not cost the county a dollar, but will be worth much to the farmers of that section.

Special Offer

We expect to put out a greater number of farm wagons around close to home this year than ever before, and in order to do this we are making the special prices below:

2 3/4	Thimble Skein Wagon, with bed, at	$50.00
3x8	" " "	52.00
3 1/4	" " "	55.00

Can furnish any height wheel preferred, the regular height, 42x52 inch, or the low 40x44 inch or special 37x46 inch. In the low wheel we specially recommend the 40x44 height, as they are well proportioned, very strong and durable.

Upon investigation you will find these prices from $8 to $12 under most all other makes, and at the same time we propose to give you a first-class light running wagon, made of bone-dry material throughout.

WE GUARANTEE EVERY WAGON right along side any other make for strength, light running, etc. Remember that while we are making extremely low prices, we propose to give you just as good a wagon as the other fellow is now charging you at least ten dollars more for.

Mr. S. L. Dodds, the proprietor, having his own timber and mills, is in position to build wagons for much less than those who are compelled to go on the open market for their supply of material. Being a large planter, Mr. Dodds uses a great number of wagons, and is in position to know just what style wagon suits the farmer best—and is now having wheels made with extra thick tires, deeper felloes, larger hubs and all other parts ironed in proportion.

Our foreman, Mr. Hertweck, and also our business manager, Mr. Baltzer, has been raised up in the wagon business, having been connected with this plant practically all their lives, and both are thoroughly familiar with the important points of wagon manufacture, and are using their every effort to put out a strictly first-class wagon that will best suit the farmer.

As a special inducement we will allow $5.00 for this advertisement when cut from this paper and presented at our office, and accompanied by cash order for wagon during the month of August.

WHY PAY SEVERAL DOLLARS EXTRA FOR JUST A NAME, WHEN YOUR HOME FACTORY WILL FURNISH A WAGON AS GOOD FOR LESS.

Write us direct or come in and see us. We have a good stock of all size wagons on hand and will appreciate your business.

Respectfully,

HICKMAN WAGON CO.

The Courier failed to mention last week the marriage of Miss Bulah McGehee and J. M. Marshall, which occurred in this city, Sunday July 24th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. G. Stockton, of the Presbyterian church, at the home of Wiley Haby in East Hickman in the presence of a few friends.

Duel Over Girl.

Little Rock, Ark., July 30.—Gardner Oliphant, 25 years old, scion of a wealthy and aristocratic Southern family, was shot down and perhaps fatally wounded in a crowded street here by L. F. Shoemaker, a musician.

The trouble arose over a love affair, the young men having quarreled earlier in the evening over a young woman whose name neither will divulge.

Shoemaker, standing in the lobby of a downtown theater, saw Oliphant passing in a street car. Oliphant evidently saw his enemy at practically the same moment, and jumped from the car. He carried a grip in which were two revolvers.

As he leaped from the car he jerked open the grip and seized one of the revolvers, but at the same instant Shoemaker pulled an automatic pistol and fired. The bullet struck Oliphant in the head, passing under the skull and emerging through his nose. There were hundreds of witnesses, and probably a hundred people were in the theater lobby when Shoemaker fired the shot.

Oliphant fell to the street unconscious, but revived before a physician reached his side. He was taken to a hospital, where it was said later that he might recover, although his wound is considered serious.

Shoemaker made no attempt to escape but stood near where he fired the shot until Detective Horowitz arrived and placed him under arrest.

MT. M'KINLEY PARTY FAILS

Expedition, in Cook's Trail, Defeated Ten Miles From the Summit Goal.

Seward, Alaska, July 30.—The Mount McKinley expedition, headed by C. E. Rusk of Chelan, Wash., which sailed from Seattle on the revenue cutter Tahoma April 24, and which followed Dr. Cook's route up the Susitna and Chulitna rivers, failed to reach the summit of Mount McKinley, and is now on the way back to Seward.

The climbers ascended the peak said by Cook to be the summit, but it is 10 miles from the topmost point of the mountain. The Rusk party was unable to see the flag which the Thomas Lloyd party is said to have planted on the summit last April, and the members are disinclined to believe the story told by the Fairbanks expedition.

FELL TO DEATH LAUGHING

Brooklynite Was Celebrating His Thirty-Second Birthday When Crisis Came.

New York, July 30.—Thomas Tallasen is dead at his home in Brooklyn, because a funny story caused him to laugh so heartily that he lost his balance and fell from a railing on which he was seated, to the ground, a distance of five feet. His skull was fractured and he died in a hospital, ten hours later.

Tallasen was seated on the railing of his veranda, where a party of friends gathered to congratulate him on the occasion of his thirty-second birthday. He had been there but a short time when a member of the party told a funny story. Tallasen burst out laughing, and before anyone could reach him he had tumbled over. He was hurried to the hospital, where he died without regaining consciousness.

The large living room of the Hoen home was artistically decorated in gold and green.

Announcement

No one will be sold more than twenty shares of $100 each of the stock of The People's Bank—it then proposes to be representative, in this respect—there will be a fair distribution of its stock in Hickman and the surrounding farming country.

That is, the stock will be placed, as nearly as possible, so as to represent each neighborhood in the country that Hickman depends upon for its support, and also to include the different business interests of the town.

And then, its nine Directors will be chosen that each of these different neighborhoods or communities, together with the town's business interest, will have a representative in its governing board.

Interest will be paid to depositors in its Savings Department and thus it extends to them, for the first time in this community, the privilege of a co-operative investment.

It will be the earnest endeavor of its management to conserve the interest of its customers in general, granting to them every favor that prudent banking will allow.

Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

Troops on Scene.

Columbus, Ohio, July 30.—Mayor Marshall and Brigadier General McMahon, commanding the militia, have decided to run the cars after the arrival of Governor Harmon, who is coming here from Charlevoix, Mich.

Troops are in possession of the city and the State Capitol grounds, on which are the headquarters of the commanding office and ambulance corps, present a warlike appearance. The street car strike is now in the hands of Adjutant General Charles Wrybrecht and Brigadier General McMahon.

Mayor Marshall has refused permission to pass through the lines in East Broad street, where Troop A, Cleveland cavalry, is stationed. Rumors are current the Governor will officially condemn Mayor Marshall for not calling troops, and he may possibly suspend the Mayor and the sheriff.

Street cars were started after three regiments of the State militia were distributed along the lines in all parts of the city. There was little demonstration during the arrival of troops aside from jeers and cat calls.

Superintendent Whisner of the street railways company says:

"I expect trouble when night comes and the strikers can bombard the cars from cover. There will be little violence during the daylight hours while the troops are in control of the situation."

FORTUNE SEEKER KILLED

One Ohio Youth Holds Unconscious Companion on Roof of Speeding Train.

St. Louis, July 30.—Holding the form of his unconscious companion, Harry Thomas, 20 years old, of Cincinnati, Ohio, Albert Donahew of Waverly, Ohio, rode into Union Station atop of a Wabash Railroad passenger train and yelled until station employes heard him and relieved him of his burden. Thomas was rushed to the City Hospital. His skull is fractured and he has little chance for recovery.

The two young men left their homes recently bent on carving a niche for themselves in Oklahoma. They rode all the way on top of the flyer. As the train passed through the railroad yards Thomas, who had been lying flat on his back, sat up to get a better view of the surroundings. As he did so the train ran under the Twelfth street viaduct. One of the beams struck Thomas on the head, and he would have been swept off, possibly to death, had not Donahew grabbed and held on to him.

Where Do YOU Stand?

Our merchants and business men should take a little more interest in the matter of helping to land the Mississippi Valley Transportation Co. in this city. They ask us to take $10,000 worth of their stock; in turn, they guarantee to spend this amount in Hickman for their wharf and warehouse improvements.

A railroad promoter will come along and ask us to give $10,000 to $20,000 to get a new road. We will hustle to do this without any hope of getting a cent in return—we actually give the money, without expecting a share in the company's profits or a promise that a third of it will be spent again in the city.

The Transportation Company asks us to become partners with them in are now almost finished. They hope to have a few boats in operation by October 15th. Unfortunately, they cannot load or unload this new type of boat except at places where they have electric derricks installed. The boats have been designed purposely to eliminate the old "roust-a-bout" mode of handling freight, which means both economy and speed. So if we have no specially constructed wharf, we will have no new boat line. To buy the stock means to get the improvements.

A well known financier of this city said to a Courier man: "I am sure this would be a great thing for the town. I expected to put $2,000 into the proposition merely to help it along, but I have investigated and find that only two merchants have subscribed. If any body should be interested, it is the merchant. If they don't care enough about it to take as much as a share, I don't propose to put up a cent."

He is right. There are 63 retail stores in Hickman. Four of them put up for the new railroad—two of them have taken stock in the water way concern. This is a sad commentary on the enterprise of 57 of them.

Let's get down to business and do things. There is hardly a business

Kills Lover's Father.

Sesser, Ill., Aug. 2.—In the presence of 16-year-old Edith Newton, the village beauty, her father, James Newton, and her sweetheart, Singleton Isom, fought a fatal pistol duel, resulting in Newton's death, here, Isom, who is 21 years old, is in jail at Benton, 75 miles southeast of St. Louis, awaiting a preliminary hearing on a charge of murder, placed against him by the Coroner's jury.

Newton conceived a bitter hatred against Isom last winter on account of his attention to the blue-eyed schoolgirl, and by threats against his life drove the youth out of town. He returned secretly Saturday afternoon and, eluding her father's vigilance, made his presence known to his sweetheart. She joined him at once and they went to the home of Isom's brother-in-law, Frank Page, in Sesser.

Newton, suspicious of the absence of his daughter, armed himself Sunday morning and went in quest of her admirer. The fancied wrong done his daughter seven months ago seemed to half craze the old man, his family say.

Sunday afternoon Isom, Miss Newton and his sisters, Mrs. Page and Mrs. V. A. Murray, were laughing and talking together in the parlor of the Page home. Page himself was in the barn. Suddenly the front door was flung open and the white-haired father, with a revolver in his hand, stood at the threshold. Without a word he fired point blank at Isom.

At the sound of the shot the women fled shrieking through the back door. As they reached the yard they heard a second shot and Isom sprang unharmed through the rear door. He whirled at the stoop, and drawing a revolver fired back into the house.

A few moments later Newton staggered out at the front door and appeared at the corner of the house. He kept himself from falling by leaning against the wall. But the sight of his enemy fleeing toward the barn nerved him to a last effort. He pulled himself erect, took aim, missed and fell dead. Isom's bullet had entered his right breast, penetrated the lung and passed completely through the body.

The girl for whom the deadly battle had been fought recoiled in horror from the slayer of her father and begged with sobs to be taken home. Her mother, summoned to the scene, took her in her arms, half-fainting, to her home, where the girl is prostrated.

Isom made no attempt to escape, but waited at the Page house until the arrival of Constable Frank Montgomery, to whom he surrendered.

"I had to kill him," was all the youth would say.

Deputy Sheriff W. B. Odom of Benton drove 16 miles to Sesser for the prisoner and placed him in jail. A coroner's inquest, held at the scene of the killing, resulted in a verdict of homicide and an order to hold Isom for murder. The preliminary hearing will be held this week at Benton.

the business. If the company makes a dollar, we get our per cent of the profits. They go further and promise to spend every dollar in Hickman that they get in Hickman. The railroad company doesn't make any promises regarding a reduction in freight; the water ways people guarantee a saving of 25 per cent. We could better afford to even give the money to the latter than the railroad scheme, although the railroad money is well spent.

People all over the country are taking stock in the river concern, not because they are interested in the growth of any town, but because they consider it a good investment, bidding fair to pay from 10 to 20 per cent annually. And we, who should be interested from both points of view, are actually "laying down" it seems. Something over half of the stock has been raised—but what about the other half?

One gentleman insists that the boat line will come—stock or no stock. In a sense this is true; but it will not make a stop here unless we do our part. The concern has already enough money to put the line in operation, and many of the boats man in town that could not take one share of this stock at $50, when you have to lay down only $15 and pay the balance in 18 months. It will be worth twice as much to the town as a little grape-vine railroad and will not cost half the money.

It's a good investment. It will help Hickman. Where do YOU stand in these matters?

JOHN A. McCLURE & CO. STATE LINE, KY.

The fact that Aug. Ropke could steal $30,000 a month for eighteen months from an institution like the Fidelity Trust Company, which was regularly inspected by an examiner, is a pretty strong argument against creating such an office as "bank examiner" for Kentucky and thereby causing additional burden for the already heavily-laden taxpayer. It's simply a question of honesty on the part of bank officials, anyhow.

Hugh Ed Curlin, formerly with Ellison Bros., in this city, has resigned his position with Hardy, Malone & Jones, of Union City, and will embark in the gent's furnishing business in Hickman, about September 1st.

The business will be located in the room now occupied by Ellison Bros. as a dry goods department.

Mr. Curlin informs us that he will handle everything in the furnishing line for both men and boys, and will also be exclusive agent for Royal Tailors, Chicago, in this city. After a short vacation, he will go to St. Louis where he will purchase a new and up-to-date stock, embracing everything under the gent's furnishing head.

Mr. Curlin is well known to most of the people of this vicinity, and should have little trouble in building up a good trade. For a number of years he has been engaged as salesman by some of the best stores in this section, and should be well equipped in the matter of experience.

Here's our best wishes for your success, Hugh Ed.

Everything Propitious.

A quiet reflection upon the situation indicates that Hickman is coming. There are a hundred and one things that might be mentioned to substantiate this statement. Among them are a new business house, a new bank, a new railroad, a new river transportation company, better roads leading into town, bountiful crops, etc., etc. These are certain harbingers of prosperity and municipal growth.

Already there is renewed activities in financial, real estate and commercial lines; greater than in the past five years at the same time in the season. Some of the oldest and most conservative business men predict that the next 365 days will be the best in the history of the town.

Hickman has not only grown during the past few years, but will continue to do so. A gentleman, who has been away from here several years and returned for a visit, said to us that Hickman's growth reminded him of what an Irishman once said:

At an Irish wake one night, the sons of Erin were pretty full, when they put the corpse in the coffin they reversed ends and put the feet where the head ought to be. The next day when the coffin plate was removed to permit the friends to have a last look, the first Irishman looked and said to the next, "Murphy, I would not if I was yez. Hez changed so much yez would never know it was him."

So it is. Hickman has changed. She is a progressive little city. You can't stay away long and return and say "the town looks natural." She is like the Irishman—we've moved her while you was away,—but she isn't dead.

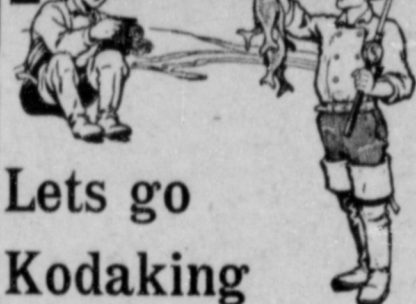

During the next year she will be moved some more. If you want to live in the best town in the U. S. to the square inch, come to Hickman. No town in this state offers you better opportunities—and 99 per cent of them not as good.

Doing hard work in a bent or stooping position puts a stitch in the back that is painful. If the muscles have become strained, you can't get rid of it without help. Contest, Mere Farce.

Contrary to general expectations, a contest against the legality of the local option election on July 21st, was filed before His Honor, W. A. Naylor, judge of the Fulton County Court, last Friday at Hickman.

Several prominent business men, when asked their opinion of the contest, said with a smile, "the most frivolous grounds I have ever known to be presented to any court."

Another said, "It is the merest farce."

The stage performer is on hand but the performance will not attract the attention of the public.

The first ground for contest is that the ballots were not legal. The commissioners pass upon the question as to whether the ballots were on paper according to requirement of the law.

Two of the commissioners were active participants for the return of the saloon. The sheriff of the county was the third. He refuses to become a partisan and stood for a fair election. Now if there was fraud it could not have been with local option lists. Neither do we believe that there was fraud of any value. It is certainly not in the mouth of high license contestants to charge fraud on their own men.

This is the end of farce No. 1.

No. 2, comes upon the stage with a large number of actors. The women and children play the role of intimidators of the voters.

The women and children certainly were on the streets. They never for one moment crossed the line marked out by the sheriff and his deputies.

Quite a number of negroes were marched to the polling places and lined up under guard just outside the fifty-foot limit. They remained under the protection of their guards who wore their red tie and streamers who handed these colored voters registration certificates, just as he left the head of the column to cast his ballot.

Whatever of fraud there may have been here, will more than likely throw out these vicious ballots and give the "drys" the majority which rightfully belongs to them in Fulton. —Woman's Daily.

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS.

Doan's Kidney Pills have done Great Service for People who Work in Hickman.

Most Hickman people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework; lifting or pulling, or trying the back in a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, put new strength in bad backs. Cures effected in this locality form the strongest proof of their efficiency. Read this testimony:

J. F. Eddleman, barber, Pleasant Port, Ky., says: "Anyone who follows my occupation requires a strong back, for the long hours spent at the chair, bring a steady strain on the muscles of the loins. I was in pretty bad shape and could not work with any degree of comfort. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my attention and willing to try anything that might check the trouble, I procured a box. They promptly relieved the pain in my back and the kidney secretions which had been scanty and distressing in passage, became natural."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Crippin Admits Identity.

Quebec, Aug. 2.—Dr. Harvey Hawley Crippen, suspected of the murder of his actress wife, Belle Elmore, in London, was arraigned in police court before Judge Panet Angers shortly before noon Monday. The proceedings were brief. Crippen readily admitted his identity. He offered no objection to being sent back to England for trial.

Miss Ethel Claire Leneve, his typist, who was arrested with him on the Montrose Sunday, was too ill to appear in court, the physicians announcing that she had broken down completely and was in a condition of nervous collapse.

The pair are locked in the gloomy underground dungeons of the parliament buildings. Inspector Dew of Scotland Yard and Canadian police officials would not trust their important prisoners to the ordinary police cells, but carried them to the parliament dungeons, usually reserved for political prisoners.

Crippen was sullen and silent. He sat stolidly on the narrow bunk in his seven-by-four cell and refused to talk.

The Leneve girl was almost a physical wreck. She wrung her hands and moaned piteously. She had not closed her eyes in sleep since Crippen was arrested on the deck of the Montrose Sunday morning, and Monday she rolled from side to side on her prison bed, her sobs affecting even the hardened guards that stood in the corridors.

The precautions against allowing Crippen or his typist an opportunity for suicide were evidently well advised. In the envelope containing Crippen's belongings the police have a paper in which was wrapped a powder and a tiny bottle containing a brown liquid. No analysis has been made, but Dew is convinced that both are poison, carried by the dentist in order to summarily end the chase if he found himself hard pressed.

Just before the police secured Miss Leneve, she rushed to a porthole on the Montrose and succeeded in throwing something overboard. This is believed to have been the revolver with which Crippen is known to have carried when he bearded the ship.

Crippen was standing on the port side of the ship forward. It is customary to take on the pilot forward on the port side, but the rowboat passed astern of the Montrose.

"There seems to be a lot of pilots in that boat," remarked Crippen.

"Two of them may be doctors," said Dr. Stuart.

Worried by "Doctors." "Do doctors examine everybody on board?" asked Crippen in tones of anxiety.

"Not always," was the reply. The rowboat was passing astern of the steamer, moved along the starboard side to a point aft of amidships, where a rope ladder had been rigged. Up this ladder climbed Inspector Dew, Dominion Detectives McCarthy and Denis, and the regular pilot who was to take the boat to Quebec.

When Crippen was arrested on deck on the Montrose, his companion was in her stateroom below, according to stories told by the passengers. A search of the doctor revealed nothing of importance, and Inspector Dew went below to get the girl. She was seated in her room blissfully ignorant of the net fastening tight about her, reading George Sheldon's "Audrey's Recompense," evidently absorbed in the novel.

Dew rapped on the door, and without waiting for a reply entered. Chief McCarthy followed. As the officers formally placed her under arrest, with a piercing shriek the little figure, awkward in its boy's clothing, staggered to the stateroom bunk. When she had been revived with brandy, she suddenly darted to the port hole and before the men could stop her had thrown out what is supposed to have been Crippen's revolver.

He Had Diamonds Hidden.

When searched, it was discovered that the Leneve girl wore a heavy canvas harness, designed to conceal as much as possible her dainty woman's figure. While the stewardess was searching her the girl held her hands above her head, moaning piteously. When it was over she collapsed and the ship's doctor was called. By night she had recovered sufficiently to eat dinner, but is again in a weakened condition.

Dew, not satisfied with the first search of Crippen, himself examined the dentist and discovered a linen belt next to his skin and attached to his shirt, to which were affixed several woman's diamond rings, earrings and a stickpin.

The Scotland Yard inspector believes that the Leneve girl had no hand in the killing of Belle Elmore.

The prohibition elections in Fulton and Carrollton would indicate that people of Fulton are satisfied with butter and soda water, while the people of Carrollton still prefer a little sugar in "thern."

Power Over Illness

Don't criticize your doctor because medicine prescribed by him fails to have the desired effect. The prescription may have been good, but the ingredients dispensed poor. Give the doctor a fair show by taking his prescriptions to a druggist who makes a point of dispensing only pure drugs of right potency—drugs that have the power to overcome illness.

Tested drugs only are used here, and skilled pharmacists do the compounding. You should have the best procurable when combating sickness.

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist.

PEACHES.

The peach closely resembles the apple, though more likely to spoil, and therefore to set up fermentation. Unlike the apple, the peach is good only for a short time between the point of complete ripening and the beginning of decay. Like all other fruit, the peach is best uncooked and eaten alone. The natural appetite of the child prefers to eat it without mixture and any child in hot weather may well make a morning meal on peaches or apples, eating nothing else for three hours or more. Hunger, even when perfectly natural, need not be hastily satisfied. Even children can lay the cornerstone of virtue, self-control, by learning to think of something else than food, at times, even when there is a real physiological need for it, which is not always the case when food is demanded. A healthy child may be allowed to eat as many peaches as desired in the morning, with the understanding that nothing more is to be asked for till noon. In extreme hot weather this is usually beneficial.
